ONLINE SAFETY WEBSITE FOR 11 COMMONWEALTH COUNTRIES

Bringing the best of the UK's cyber security expertise to other Commonwealth countries is the mission of the U.K. Commonwealth Cyber Security Programme, launched following the Commonwealth Heads of Government meeting in April 2018. One part of this programme is to deliver free, accessible, up to date and comprehensive advice about staying safe online to the people of Trinidad and Tobago.

Get Safe Online: www.getsafeonline.org - a UK based not-for-profit organisation - will launch a brand new website in Trinidad and Tobago on May 13, 2019. The site will include comprehensive online safety advice and information on the latest online safety risks, specific to persons in Trinidad and Tobago.

Alongside the website, a series of public awareness campaigns will run throughout the next 11 months to raise maximum awareness about online safety among the general public. The aim is to help everyone, from the most online savvy to those who are less confident using the internet become more risk-aware and better protected online.

Antigua & Barbuda, Bahamas, Barbados, Dominica, Jamaica, Grenada, Guyana, St. Kitts, St. Vincent & The Grenadines, St. Lucia, and Trinidad & Tobago are the 11 commonwealth countries in which the public awareness campaign has been launched. The first campaign is headlined "hello_POTENTIAL VICTIM" and set to start May 13, 2019 in Trinidad and Tobago with the aid of the marketing agency ODEM. Over the period May 2019 to March 2020 as part of the campaign plans, Traditional and Digital PR strategies will be used in each country to accomplish main goal for safety online.

hello_POTENTIAL VICTIM uses examples of what a "Potential Victim" looks like from the victim's point of view. In addition, messaging is crafted from a fraudster's perspective. "Hello" serves a dual role, somewhat of a "wake up call" to victims exposed to online predators and scammers as well as a greeting, much like how a criminal would address their target. This campaign is positioned to create awareness and attract attention to ever increasing safety issues online.

Global Ambassador for Get Safe Online, Peter Davies, doesn't want people to be scared away from internet use. "In Trinidad and Tobago, just as in other Caribbean countries we are working with, most people already have a "digital life", and benefit from the information, opportunities and personal empowerment it can bring. Creating and sustaining a digital economy also brings more wealth and opportunities to the region. We want people to realise those benefits confidently while knowing how to avoid pitfalls such as lottery scams, romance fraud, and phishing. We also want to encourage people - especially the younger generation - not to “overshare” personal images or information. That can come back to haunt them and put them at risk.”
